HAWAII'S THRONE UPSET.

And Her People Come Knocking at America's Door.

Commission Asking for Annexation Arrives at San Francisco.

Provisional Government Established Pending a Decision at Washington.

News of the Revolt Arrives by the Steamer Bringing the Commission.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—At 3 o'clock this morning the steamer Claudine arrived in this port from the Hawaiian Islands, bringing the important news of a revolution in that Kingdom.

QUEEN LILIUOKALANI.

A provisional government has been established by the uprising of the people, Queen Liliuokalani has been deposed from power, the monarchy abolished, government buildings seized and the new Provisional Ministry, composed of four members, is sustained by the bayonets of volunteers.

The Queen attempted on Saturday, Jan. 14, to promulgate a new constitution, depriving foreigners of the right of franchise and abrogating the existing House of Nobles, at the same time giving her the power of appointing a new House.

This was resisted by the foreign element of the community, who at once appointed a committee of safety of thirteen members, who called a mass-meeting of their class, at which 1,500 or 1,600 were present.

That meeting unanimously adopted resolutions condemning the action of the Queen and authorizing the committee to take into further consideration whatever was necessary to protect the public safety. They did so, and organized a Provisional Government on the Tuesday following.

This Government was composed of S. R. Dole, J. A. King, P. C. Jones and W. O. Smith. They at once issued a proclamation reciting the arrogance of the Queen, giving the broken promises of her Majesty, detailing the wrongs inflicted on residents and property-owners and ending as follows:

We, citizens and residents of the Hawaiian Islands, organized and acting for the public safety and common good, hereby proclaim as follows:

Years, who assembled, fully armed, to the number of 200.

The old Government surrendered without striking a blow, although it had about four hundred men under arms and a battery of Gatling guns.

The new Government then notified the foreign representatives of the change in affairs and asked recognition. It was at once recognized by all the Powers but England.

The Provisional Government promised peace, and requested all parties to continue in the Government service, except the following:

Queen Liliuokalani, Charles B. Wilson, Marshall, Samuel Parker, Minister of Foreign Affairs; W. H. Cornwell, Minister of Finance; John F. Wilson, Minister of the Interior; Arthur P. Peterson, Attorney General.

The Government assumed formal control of the palace and barracks. The ex-Queen retired to her private residence at Washington place, and the Government has granted her a honorary guard of sixteen men. The Honolulu guards were paid off to Feb. 1 and discharged.

A strong force of volunteers took possession and was left in charge of the Palace barracks, Police Headquarters and other Government buildings.

Headquarters the work of military organization was rapidly pushed forward, and volunteers continued to pour steadily in from all quarters. It was not apprehended that any difficulty would arise upon the other islands.

The steamer Claudine was chartered and left Honolulu on the morning of Wednesday, Jan. 19, with the new Commissioners aboard instructed to proceed to Washington and negotiate a treaty of annexation. The Commissioners are: Lorrin A. Thurston, William C. Wilder, William R. Castle, Charles L. Carter and Joseph Marsden.

The Claudine also brought up the representatives of the deposed Queen. The Hawaiian Gazette says one of the Ministers received positive information when the blow was to be struck on the 15th inst. He immediately proceeded to consult two prominent citizens on the course to be taken. After a conference the gentlemen agreed to advise the Queen to refuse to sign a new Constitution and to decline to resign if her resignations should be demanded.

The promulgation of the Legislature was the last chapter in the story of the morning. It went off tamely and quietly enough, but those who were associated with the real situation felt that the Government and the nation were sleeping on the crest of a volcano.

In the afternoon, immediately after the House had been prorogued, the Hui Kalanianaʻokalani marched over to the palace and presented a petition that the Queen with the aid of the people as the fundamental law of the land. The matter of the new Constitution and petition had been prearranged, and it stated that the promulgation had been promised two weeks previously and that the member from Liliuokalani, William White, had been actively working up the movement.

A large crowd of Hawaiians had gathered around the palace gates and in the grounds near the flight of steps, and natives were also gathered in large groups in the Government building yard and elsewhere in the neighborhood.

The Queen retired to the blue room and summoned the Ministers. They came and found Liliuokalani seated at a table, still dressed in the magnificent costume of the morning, and sparkling in a coronet of diamonds. She at once presented them with a draft of the new constitution, demanded their signatures and declared her intention to promulgate the same at once.

Attorney-General Peterson and Minister of Interior Cornwell decidedly refused to sign, and Ministers Cornwell and Parker, though reluctantly, joined their colleagues in their refusal. All the Cabinet advised and even strongly urged her Majesty not to violate the law, but she was not to be dissuaded from her revolutionary course.

Arriving her clenched hand down upon the table, Queen Liliuokalani said: "Gentlemen, I do not wish to hear any more advice. I intend to promulgate this constitution and to do it now."

Trusting, she told the Cabinet that unless they abandoned their resistance to one law she would go upon the steps of the palace and tell the excited crowd there assembled that she wished to give them a new constitution, but her Ministers were insistent the palace hindering her from doing it.

The Ministers relinquished the riot at the courthouse and the fate of the new constitution was left into the hands of the mob. They knew what the threat meant and before it could be put into execution they fled for their lives.

Cabinet, the Governor of Oahu, the young Princess, Chief Justice Judd and Justice Hironaka, of the staff, ladies of the court, Kahili bearers, &c., she ascended the dome and announced the postponement of the Constitution.

"Return to your homes peacefully and quietly," she said, "and continue to look towards me and I will look towards you. Keep me ever in your love."

Mr. White replied, thanking the Queen, and assuring her of the love of the people, and that they would wait patiently until their desires should be fulfilled.

Mr. Kamehameha then began in a loud voice an inflammatory harangue, which was suppressed. He demanded the lives of the Cabinet, who had opposed the wishes of Her Majesty, and declared that he threatened for bloodshed.

A few moments later the Queen went out upon the upper balcony of the palace and addressed the crowd. She told them that on account of the perjury of her Ministers she was unable to give them the constitution which she had promised them, but she would take the earliest opportunity of procuring it for them.

The crowd gave three cheers. Representative White then proceeded to the steps of the Palace and began an address. He told the crowd that the Queen and the Cabinet had betrayed them, and that instead of going home peacefully they should go to the Palace and kill and burn her. Attempts were made to stop him, which he resisted, saying that he would never close his mouth until the new constitution was granted. Finally he yielded to the expostulations of Col. Boyd and others, threw up his hands and declared that he was done for the present.

The business men's meeting later formed a committee of Public Safety, to which the further consideration of the situation was delegated, after which it adjourned.

About 5 o'clock in the afternoon the United States steamship Boston landed about three hundred men. Each man had two belts of cartridges around his waist and was armed with a rifle.

The men marched up to the office of the Consul General of the United States, where a halt was made. The marines were detached and sent to the American Legation, while the sailors marched out along Merchant street with two Gatling guns and a band.

Some time before Kalakaua sailed for San Francisco, where he died, Princess Liliuokalani was with him, and she was the only one in the family who was not deposed from power.

Her husband was John O. Dominis, who died recently. He had been a Dalmatian sailor, and subsequently held Government positions in Hawaii.

When John Kalakaua, son of Kalakaua, was in this city about four years ago, Mr. Dominis was with her. After Dominis died, his royal wife advertised for his relatives and among the first replies was one from a former wife, of whose existence Liliuokalani had not known.

From the beginning of her reign the Queen has been troubled by the fact that she could not command loyalty on account of her foreign blood.

During the turbulent beginning of her reign she was taken ill with an organic trouble, and her physicians pronounced her at the point of death.

Many have said that she would die and a plot was on foot to deliver the kingdom to the British.

The father was said to be a party to the scheme, and all that blocked it was the Queen's persistent clinging to life.

The $80,000 Check Forger and His Tool Arraigned.

Their Examination Set Down for Monday Afternoon.

Sent Back to Police Headquarters in Default of Bail.

George M. Nisbett, the alleged forger of the now celebrated $80,000 check, and James E. Sturges, the youth who, it is claimed, was Nisbett's cat's paw, were in the Tombs Court this morning for arraignment.

The crowd gave three cheers. Representative White then proceeded to the steps of the Palace and began an address. He told the crowd that the Queen and the Cabinet had betrayed them, and that instead of going home peacefully they should go to the Palace and kill and burn her. Attempts were made to stop him, which he resisted, saying that he would never close his mouth until the new constitution was granted. Finally he yielded to the expostulations of Col. ### A QUIET FUNERAL FOR BLAINE.

Services to Be Held in the Church of the Covenant.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The closely drawn blinds of the Blaine mansion, the air of quietude pervading its surroundings, the crape on the bell knob and the absence of the newspaper watchers who for seven weeks have remained uninterruptedly on duty day and night within sight of the house are the only visible signs that the long expected end has come.

All the arrangements for the quiet funeral are nearly completed, and will be announced later in the day.

The pall-bearers will be personal friends of the dead statesman. Admission to the Church of the Covenant, where the services will be held, will be by card, and after the allotted seats have been assigned to the family and immediate personal friends, to the President and Cabinet, and to the Diplomatic Corps, who will attend unofficially, there will be very little room left.

Telegrams of condolence from every part of the United States and from foreign countries continue to pour in. There is an apparently endless chain of messenger boys passing between the telegraph office and the red house.

NO RAIN FOR TWO YEARS.

Descendants of the Bounty's Mutineers Living on Fruit.

The American bark Vigilant, Capt. F. C. Bailey, arrived at this port today after a stormy passage of 185 days from Kobe, Japan. The Vigilant touched at the famous Pitcairn Island Nov. 8, and brought some startling intelligence from that usually quiet spot.

Capt. Bailey says that the residents of the place, who are the descendants of the mutineers of the ship Bounty, are in a state of mind owing to the fact that the island, which has been a volcano, is gradually drying up. There has been no rain for two years, and the little soil, which has now dwindled to 100 persons, subsist entirely on fruit.

In some places the ground is so hot that it burns the feet to walk upon it. The only animals on the island are dogs and cats. The people are vegetarians and use neither wine nor tobacco.

Capt. Bailey also reports that about five weeks before he touched at Pitcairn a shipwrecked sailor, one Coffin, of Cape Cod, was washed ashore on the island.

Coffin was informed that the smoking was against the rules of the place and he took up his quarters on an isolated spot on the mountain side. He is waiting for a ship to take him home.

The Norwegian fruit steamer Georg Dumols arrived here this morning in tow of the wrecking steamer J. J. Merritt, and put into Stapleton, S. I.

RAIN OR SNOW TO-MORROW.

Mr. Dunn Says There Is Nasty Weather Ahead.

The freeze-up in New York today afforded a most welcome relief from the mud and slush which the people have been obliged to wade through for several days.

The relief, however, will, according to Weather Forecaster Dunn, be only temporary. It will, says Mr. Dunn, either rain or snow to-morrow and there will be exceedingly nasty weather until perhaps Tuesday night, when a moderately cold wave will move in from the Northwest.

A warm wave is moving East in the company of a snowstorm, and if it arrives on schedule time it will meet the people reeling from the church to-morrow noon.

It is colder today all over the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States and New England. It was 23 degrees above zero here at Albany, N. Y., and only 10 at New York. At New York, N. Y., it was only 10 at New York.

BRENNAN HAS SCOWS NOW.

There Is Hope that the Streets May Be Cleaned.

Street-cleaning Commissioner Brennan was in a happy frame of mind today. The recent release of the ice-bound scows at Hart's Island, and Capt. Anderson, Superintendent of Tugs and Scows, towed them down.

Now that the city has no vessels to get rid of the accumulated garbage, there is hope that the streets may be cleaned.

TUGS CAUGHT IN THE ICE.

CITY ISLAND, Jan. 28.—The northeast wind has packed the ice in this harbor. The tug Churchill and Abner Taylor, before reaching the island, were held up by the ice.

Now that the city has no vessels to get rid of the accumulated garbage, there is hope that the streets may be cleaned.

BANK ROBBERS KILL.

Two Masked Men Shoot a Citizen at Waverly, Kan.

They Are Captured and Bound After an Exciting Pursuit.

Bravery of the Cashier Results in Driving Them Away.

WAVERLY, Kan., Jan. 28.—A desperate attempt was made to rob the bank of Waverly yesterday.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon two masked men entered the front door of the bank and, covering Cashier Duvall and Assistant Cashier Converse with their revolvers, proceeded coolly to rob the vault and cash drawer.

While they were thus engaged Mr. O'Neil, a merchant, entered the bank for the purpose of making a deposit.

At the risk of his life Cashier Duvall called out to him to run and alarm the citizens.

The robber who was guarding the cashier leveled his revolver as though he would shoot, but for some reason changed his mind. Mr. O'Neil ran across the street and gave the alarm.

The robbers ran for their horses, which were in the alley behind the bank, closely pursued by a number of citizens.

Foremost in the pursuit was A. F. Ingelman. As the first of the robbers leaped into the saddle he turned quickly and fired at Ingelman and sent a ball through his heart, death being instantaneous.

A fusillade of shots followed, but the robbers succeeded in getting out of the town unharmed.

A posse of citizens followed in pursuit and were joined by others from Lebo and Malvern.

About two miles from Lebo the robbers were caught and surrounded, and after some more firing, in which both of their horses were shot dead, they surrendered, their arms being taken from them.

Many shots were fired on both sides, but strange to say with the exception of the killing of horses no damage was done.

The robbers were taken to Lebo, where they were bound hand and foot and left in custody of a constable.

The Sheriff is now in charge of the men. It is thought there will be no effort to lynch them.

The amount of money the robbers got is not known exactly, but it was small as they were frightened away before they had time to secure much.

They have been identified as Billy Vannerman and Frank Lewis, both of Malvern, a town in Franklin, the adjoining county. Vannerman was raised in Waverly and was known to be a bad character.

Ingelman, the citizen who was shot down, leaves a widow and several children, and was in rather poor circumstances.
